

Our Environmental Commitment

We're proud to introduce Nature Pure All-Natural Organic Fertilizer, a product that offers complete plant nutrition in an easy-to-use form. We're Daylay Egg Farms, one of the largest egg producers in the United States. We're committed to ensuring that none of the byproducts from our farms pollute the environment. Concern for the environment is the driving force behind the creation of Nature Pure fertilizer.

With the help of composting equipment, we're able to turn a hard-to-handle product (poultry manure) into a valuable, natural product that enhances crops, landscaping, and turfgrass. Nature Pure is easy to handle and store, has low odor, and is beneficial to a variety of markets. It goes a long way toward our goal of complete recycling of our farm byproducts.

Environmental stewardship and the composting of poultry manure go hand in hand. We're happy to note that Nature Pure is an all-natural product that promotes responsible use of fertilizers in a number of industries. Our products help control soil erosion, help retain soil moisture, and won't pollute groundwater or runoff with nitrates. We're glad to say that all poultry manure from our farms is being used in a way that won't harm our precious environment.
