

Who Is Nature Pure?

We're a division of Daylay Egg Farms, one of the largest producers of fresh, quality eggs in the United States. All of our farms are designed to provide our customers with the best quality eggs within a day of lay. All egg grading is handled on site. Every one of our facilities has automated grading and cooling, which speeds delivery and reduces unnecessary egg handling. By strictly controlling the care and feeding of our chickens, we can ensure that our customers receive only the freshest eggs.

Nature Pure Is Composted Poultry Manure.

With over 4 million hens, we have a large supply of poultry manure. By itself, poultry manure makes a fine once-a-year fertilizer and soil amendment. But it's hard to ship and unpleasant to handle. We compost this manure for an entire year to create a line of products that are perfect for many fertilizer applications. The same dedication to quality, efficiency and streamlined operations we use for our eggs applies to the production of Nature Pure Organic Products. We make quality, all-natural products that have important benefits to many markets — agricultural, turfgrass, landscape, and residential.

Better Products Through Consistency

Unlike other types of composted products, Nature Pure products offer consistency above all. Every bag of our fertilizer has the same nutrient basis as the next, consistency that many other products can't match. Plus, our efficiency in processing and handling lets us price Nature Pure products very competitively compared to other composts.

Besides being all-natural and organic, our products enrich and strengthen soil structure, help reduce erosion, and won't pollute groundwater or runoff with nitrates. At Nature Pure Organic Products, we're happy to present a line of organic products that gives you an alternative to commercial fertilizers.
